

ADULT GROUP STUDIES

> CONNECTING WITH GRACE

Description: There are times in parenting that we find ourselves in need of parenting a different way. It may be because we're parenting a foster or adopted child, or a biological child who experienced known or unknown trauma, or maybe we just have a child who is displaying difficult behaviors. In this group study we will look at how to "connect, then correct." With God's help we will look at our own triggers and healing from our past so we can help our children heal. While the focus will be on "children from hard places," or those who are fostered or adopted, any parent will benefit from the principles that we discuss.
